

998 Daffodil Way, San Jose

As expected, the first room you see entering the home is the living room. Both a large window looking out over the front yard and a skylight make the room bright and welcoming. What you would not expect is the dining room open to the living room, the kitchen, and the family room. Family and guests can move to where the activity is yet not be isolated from others. This home's floorplan provides you with options while staying connected.

Vinyl flooring in the kitchen and dining areas, wood floors elsewhere, make the home warm, welcoming, and easy to maintain.
